

Nish Amarnath

BA Economics 2003 - 2006

Nish Amarnath earned a Distinction in Economics from Stella Maris College, Chennai and holds post-graduate degrees in media communications and journalism from the London School of Economics and Political Science and Columbia University, where she was a James W. Robins Reporting Fellow.

She debuted as an author at eighteen with The Voyage to Excellence, a critically acclaimed business biography chronicling the rise of India's top 21 women business leaders.

Ms. Amarnath has received honours for her writings, including awards from Scholastic and Infosys and the President of India's Silver Medallion, among others. Amarnath, who has been writing for The Wall Street Journal in London, was previously Managing Editor at Euromoney Institutional Investor and a senior journalist at S&P Global, formerly McGraw Hill Financial, in New York where she was nominated for the Alerian MLP Awards [AMMYs] in 2017.

She previously led a public diplomacy mandate for the UK Government on behalf of an affiliate of French multinational, Publicis Groupe. Her articles have also appeared in The Street, International Business Times, India Today, The Hindu, The New Indian Express, The Week (Magazine) and Times of India's city supplements, among others.