Programme Overview

Postgraduate Certificate in International Business Administration (PCIBA)

Stella Maris College is offering a Postgraduate Certificate in International Business Administration mainly aimed at equipping students with the necessary professional knowledge and skills to adapt to a fast changing global business environment and make useful contributions to the organisations they will work for. This programme is designed to provide students with a broad overview of the key concepts, tools and techniques needed to successfully meet the challenges of today's business world.

Individual courses will give participants the knowledge needed to work cross-functionally within their organisations and become more skilled in the basics of International Business.

This programme offers an internationally-focused curriculum, with opportunities for students to gain a full-fledged management qualification - International MBA (IMBA) from Liverpool Hope University, UK.

"The UK and India have a strong bilateral relationship which has led to a significant increase in mutually beneficial partnerships in education. We fully understand that it is very important for India's large youth population to get access to high quality education - UK universities have been working together with Indian colleges and have been supporting this for many years. There has always been a great emphasis on higher education co-operation, and the partnership between Stella Maris College and Liverpool Hope University is another significant milestone to support this."

British Deputy High Commissioner-Mr. Jeremy Pilmore-Bedford

Objectives of the Programme

- To prepare graduates for a career in business and management in a global context
- To enable students to learn about scientific approaches to business decision-making in today's dynamic and competitive international business environment
- To impart to students broad ranging knowledge, problem solving abilities and an adequate skill base particularly in an international business context
- To deepen students' theoretical, technical and conceptual understanding and develop in them an improved ability in critical analysis and perspective

Who may enroll?

- Graduates from any discipline with 60% and above marks or an equivalent professional qualification from a recognised University including the corresponding academic performance standard
- Students with work experience or internships will have an added advantage in selection

IMBA 2018-2019 batch

Curriculum

Every module is compulsory and earns the student 12 credits, delivering a total of 60 credits on the programme's completion.

Phase A: 5 Modules (60 credits) – SMC

International Finance (12 credits)

The student will gain an understanding of the world of financial management in an increasingly global market context. The module takes an international and strategic perspective in addressing issues relating to the structure of business finance and its application to the decision-making processes in organisations.

International Business Sustainability and Ethics (12 credits)

In current times, many issues concerning social responsibility of companies towards their employees and other stakeholders, and about the ethics of our trading systems are being raised widely. This module provides an opportunity for students to explore the ethical dilemmas that confront those leading and managing contemporary organisations and supports the development of critical reflective skills in them to enable them to effectively respond to various dilemmas.

International Marketing (12 credits)

The international business environment is currently undergoing a series of fundamental and far-reaching economic, social, technological and geo-political changes. These changes have led to the emergence of a new and different market reality that demands of managers creative and pragmatic patterns of thinking and behavior. This module is designed to develop among students the necessary critical knowledge and competencies for identification, analysis and solution of problems encountered in international marketing and development of international marketing strategies.

Global Economics (12 credits)

This module examines the complex reality of the global economy and in particular focuses on key debates in the study of poverty, inequality, insecurity and socio-economic development. The module provides a critical exploration of the process of economic development, on understanding different types of inequality and on contemporary trends and patterns in development and causes of persistent poverty, thereby providing students the opportunity to consider the socio-economic development within regional, national and international contexts.

Research (12 credits)

Entrepreneurship and innovation play a vital role in helping businesses of all sizes to find new sources of competitive advantage. The module aims to develop knowledge and understanding of contemporary issues in enterprise development and entrepreneurship in a world-wide context with an emphasis on scholarly knowledge, practical skills and strategic thinking. Furthermore, the aspiring entrepreneur will be able to understand the background to creating and sustaining a successful enterprise and to identify potentially valuable opportunities, building on special technologies, skills and sector gaps.

Testimonials

“At the Liverpool Hope Business School, I have thoroughly enjoyed the course because of the interactive and the unconventional ways in which teaching is practised at Hope. The faculty at the university is highly qualified and extremely supportive. The robust academic activity has helped me gain a better understanding of my course within a real world scenario. At Liverpool Vision, I was able to understand and learn more about what ‘Consultational activity’ is alongside the industry requisites through my project experience.”
Savitha Jagannath

“The experience of doing my MBA in International business from the Liverpool Hope business school made me realise the importance of networking with people around the globe. The vivid employment opportunities are quite bright in England with the right skills. I was exposed to different business problems and navigate through different thinking approaches towards the solution. The Business gateway team supports and stands as a door for graduates like me to enter into the corporate job market.”
