

March 19, 2018

Here's what these students had to say about social entrepreneurship

VOX POP

Do you think social entrepreneurship should be taught in colleges?

I definitely think social entrepreneurship should be taught in schools/colleges. It helps enable creativity in students as it also includes social and environmental goals and volunteering activities, making it familiar to students right from the school level. It can help them understand the different facets of society. It also helps them think outside the box, which in turn, can provide them with great opportunities, thereby making them the nation's assets

Merin Joseph Kallumkal,
MA, English Literature,
Stella Maris

Merin Joseph Kallumkal

MA English Literature

2016 – 2018